BRIDGERTON AFTERNOON TEA

SANDWICHES

One must, of course, begin with a selection of the finest sandwiches, each more tempting than the last. A selection of Roast Mexican Chicken with Crispy Bacon, Canadian Maple Ham Hock with Whole Grain Mustard Mayonnaise and Atlantic Crab and Prawn with Rocket Salad.

SCONES

No Afternoon Tea would be complete without the esteemed presence of sweet and savoury scones, served, as tradition dictates, with jam, butter, and the most divine clotted cream—though whether one should spread the jam first or the cream remains a debate fit for the Queen herself.

SWEET TREATS

Allow your senses to be tantalized by the decadence of Millionaire's Shortbread, rich and opulent, much like the fortunes of the ton's most eligible bachelors. Delight in the Wisteria Vanilla and Blackcurrant Sponge, a confection as delicate and beguiling as a clandestine love affair.

For those with a taste for the daring, the Dipped Chocolate Bro-nut offers a scandalous fusion of brownie and doughnut—certain to set tongues wagging. And let us not forget the Biscoff Truffle Rose, dipped in lilac chocolate, a sweet so exquisite it rivals the rarest of blooms in the Queen's garden.

To accompany such delicacies, one may choose from English Breakfast Tea, the fragrant allure of Fruit Tea, or the invigorating embrace of Wisteria Coffee.
